A Startup Experience

Chip Howes, Co Founder at Fugitive Networks

Students who are interested in Internet startups, pizza, and software engineering are encouraged to attend this talk. Industry veteran Chip Howes will be describing the ups and downs of the startup where he helped build the modern internet. Stick around for food and learn about where the internet is going, and what infrastructure, tools, and systems are necessary.

Bio: Mr. Howes has over 30 years of software development and management experience. He has held prominent positions in the digital video, telecommunications and Internet industries working for such companies as AT&T Communications, Digital Transmission Systems, Scientific-Atlanta, Cisco Systems, Nortel Networks, and Aruba Networks.

Monday, March 30th
6:00 - 8:00PM
Wisenbaker Engineering Building - Room 236C
(Pizza and Drinks provided)

After the talk: Summer Opportunities with Flowgrammable.org

We discuss how Flowgrammable.org is bridging the gap between industry and academia, and how students can gain valuable industry experience this summer through opportunities with Flowgrammable.org